

I'm not robot

Continue

Funny fill in the blank questions for kids

Click on the worksheet in the set below to see more information or download the PDF. Tired of asking your kids questions and getting a clean answer? Try these fun questions for kids who are guaranteed an answer! Kids love funny questions! When my little boy runs up and greets me with a kiss and a hug after preschool, I always have the temptation to ask: What was your day today? or How was the school today? In fact, these were the questions I always asked him. However, I realized that the answers I received were the same short answers each time. All right, or Good. These questions don't get kids talking. How was the school today? - very open question, and quite boring to be honest. Instead, I now ask a range of different funny questions, some of which are actually really silly, that produce a reaction, and much more interesting and great answers. These issues then encourage new and different issues, and our conversation continues on and on. Here's a list of funny questions for the kids I used. The first list has simple, normal, easy questions that make children actually think. There are stupid and funny questions on the second list that sometimes don't even really make sense, but they seem to get questions with better reactions and answers! Recommended: Knock Knock Jokes for Kids Top Story Books for Kids 20 Simple but fun questions for kids about your day: 1. What activity did you do today that was really fun? 2. Who/What made you really happy today? 3. What book teacher read today? Was it interesting? 4. Was there anyone who was upset today? 5. Was anyone smiling a lot in the classroom today? Why? 6. Why did you laugh, someone said a funny joke? 7. What was today for lunch? Was there anything you didn't like? 8. Have you learned any new songs in the lesson today? 9. Who/what made you miserable today? 10. Was there someone who was very nice to you today? 11. Any of your friends draw something really cool? 12. Can you teach me something you learned at school? 13. Have you helped a child in your class with anything necessary? 14. Someone helped you in something? 15. Who did you laugh with today? 16. Have you been ho/cold today? 17. What was the most difficult thing you did today? 18. Were you proud of yourself today? 19. What was your favorite thing today? 20. Do you think something exciting will happen at school tomorrow? 20 Funny Questions to Ask Kids About Your Day. If You Don't Have Luck With the Questions Above, Try some of this list. These kinds of issues are quite pervasive, and attract attention. They don't have to be serious, just actually kids think and laugh, creating a conversation. 21. Was your teacher dressed as Batman or Superman today? 22. Did you have mud for lunch? I bet they were delicious! 23. Why all the children jumped on the tables? 24. How many foreigners are in your class today? What do you mean no foreigners? 25. How Small Asleep on a chair? (probably none other than will tell you that) 26. Monkeys drove in and ate everyone's lunch, or was it a gorilla? 27. Why today everyone wore green hats, was there a party? 27. Someone injured themselves today? 28. How many spaceships have passed by your school today? 29. Do you have fun with the cat in the hat balancing everything on the ball? Oh, no, what was fun then? 30. What superpower would you like to have in school today? Why? 31. What would you like to do all day at school? 32. Did you paint on the walls today or on paper? 33. What children ran through the classroom today? 34. Did the volcano erupt when you played outside? How many benches were there? 35. Did you sing a song about animals? 36. What is my name as a child, with brown hair, your friend? Why was he so happy today? 37. What color today were teachers? 38. Did you sing happy birthday to your friend today? Oh, it wasn't someone's birthday? What were you singing? 39. Have you seen me fly past the window today while you were working? 40. Who was the superhero in the lesson today? Why did they do? Questions to ask children! Serious, stupid and funny These are just some of the stupid and ridiculous questions for kids I use every day to try and get my kids talking. Even if it's a stupid conversation, it's better than an answer such as good or good. Next time you pick up a child instead of asking: What was your day? or How was the school today? Try a few of these interesting questions to ask the kids and see what difference it makes! Looking for more questions? Try: OPEN ENDED QUESTIONS FOR CHILDREN RAISING BILINGUAL CHILDREN? Check out our ☺